3 TIE IN GOLF FLAG DAY PLAY

HAMILTON, SIMS AND E. YEHLE
GET THE FARTHEST

MRS. B. BENNETT WINS

In the Women's Contest and Mrs. M.
L. Beattie Is Second—New Tournament Planned

Though the weather was very unfavorable the Second Annual Flag Day Tournament was a big success. Over sixty members played the inclement weather and went the round of the course. The players were handicapped, especially those who have not played very much by the wet ground and high wind.

Bud Hamilton and M. V. Sims completed the nine holes in 46 strokes, and both were on the 7th green on the second round with the 50th stroke. Eugene Yehle completed the nine holes in 47, but reached the 7th green with his next three strokes. The Committee has called the contest a tie between these three players and the prize will be divided, each receiving one Kro-Flite golf ball.

Mrs. Beulah Bennett won the women's contest, reaching the green on the 4th hole, or completing seven of the nine greens. Mrs. M. L. Beattie was only a few feet short of the same green. The Committee regrets that the weather kept so many of the fair golfers away but it is hoped that all the lady members will take part in the next tournament.

Byron Costello, F. C. Miller, George Pat Wright, and John Costello, all completed the nine holes and reached the fairway of the 7th hole on the second round.

M. L. Beattie and George L. Wilfley reached the 6th green, while Ed Keck, Ellis Cook, L. E. Forsyth, H. L. Haines, Martin Lewis, Jr., and W. H. Allen were on the 6th fairway.

Judge W. C. Ellison, L. M. Eek, E. T. Dale, A. N. Somerville, M. M. Currutt, Ed W. Gray, R. C. Seal were on the 6th green, and O. K. Bovard, Bert Null, Rev. J. A. Cooper, Uel Ward, Lanekin, R. P. Hosmer, Charles Remus were on the 5th fairway.

Dr. Jesse Miller Sr., F. M. Townsend, K. P. Phares, E. L. Townsend, and H. D. Snyder were on the 4th green at the 50th stroke.

The Tournament is now working on plans for an elimination tournament to be started within a week, and it is hoped that every member of the Country Club will take part in the qualifying rounds that we classify all players.

"We ought to know just how many pigs you have so that we can make the best preparations for the show this fall, as well as to know how you are getting along. So I wish you would fill out the inclosed blank, telling how many pigs were farrowed, how many were saved at weaning time and other questions that are asked. When you have filled out the page, put it in the envelope which is addressed to me and mail it right away. It will not require any postage."

SPIRIT OF AUTHOR IS GREATEST NEED

PROFESSOR DRIGGS TELLS COL-LEGE STUDENTS TODAY

MUST SHARE WITH ALL

Spirit Of Authorship Does Not Necesssarily Mean the Writing of Books, He Says

"America is most despairingly in need of the spirit of authorship," said Prof. Howard R. Driggs in his lecture on "Cultivating the Spirit of Authorship," to students at the State Teachers College this morning.

This was the last of a series of lectures which Professor Driggs has delivered at the College this week. His lectures have been along the line of improving the speaking of English and the appreciation of literature.

At the beginning of his lecture this morning, Professor Driggs lauded the teaching profession by saying that, "There is no more earnest, more progressive or more sincere group of men and women than our teachers. A good part of their pay comes in the lives that will certainly call them blessed."

Professor Driggs related several stories of men who had failed to pass the formal English work of a college simply because they had to think and act as the teacher directed instead of living normal, human lives and writing of experiences with which they were not familiar.

"There are a great many people in this world who have not come to realize that the greatest things in life are those things which spell life, itself," he said, "and the business man or speaker who deals with unreal things and cannot convince his readers or hearers will not succeed. There is entirely too much counterfeit living in this world. A person should express his own thoughts in his own way and not imitate the work of someone else.

The speaker said that the desire to share with others was as commendable as the actual performance of some work, just as noble as the writing of a book, the painting of a picture or the singing of a song.

"The spirit of Americanism is, Come in; bring the best you have in the best possible way for the good of all. If we can catch that vision, then we begin to cultivate the spirit of authorship, whether it be the writing of books or the performance of any noble kind of work.

Professor Driggs said that it was not necessary to go far off in order to get materials for literature but that the tenderest and most beautiful works of authors came from the most simple things of life that are found in our everyday lives.

Concluding, Professor Driggs said, "No state will ever be a great state as long as it measures its wealth in corn, wheat or hogs; it must measure its wealth in the thoughts of its people. The spirit of authorship should be cultivated in our schools because the American people are starving more for poetry than for food."

Golfing Lawyers Challenge Any Profession Here

Golfers, your bluff is called. Whether you be a butcher, or baker, or candlestick maker, or even a preacher or doctor, you have been challenged.

Ellis G. Cook, speaking for the golfing lawyers of Maryville, this morning issued a challenge to all comers of any profession. He asked that any profession that claims to have four men, who insist that they can play golf, to just set the date for the combat. "Come on," he says, "First come, first defeated."

P. S. Hardy had the echo of the challenge died away when Marcus Sims speaking for journalists, jumped at the opportunity of "easy pickin'" and accepted the challenge. The date will be set soon.

SNODGRASS TO TALK ON PRESENT EVILS

TER" SERIES SUNDAY NIGHT

QUESTIONNAIRES SENT

To 200 For Opinions On Questions—
Home, Church, Maryville and Nation Are Subjects

A "What Is the Matter" series of sermons are being prepared by the Rev. R. E. Snodgrass, pastor of the First Christian Church, and will be composed of five or six sermons covering as many subjects. Mr. Snodgrass will give these series of talks on Sunday evenings. The first one will be given next Sunday upon the general theme, "What Is the Matter?"

The following Sunday Mr. Snodgrass will speak upon, "What Is the Matter, If Anything, With the Church?" On July 1 he will take up the national question—and discuss, "What Is the Matter, If Anything, With America?" The next sermon will be on school life with the subject, "What Is the Matter, If Anything, With Our Schools?" On July 15 the topic of home life will be taken and he will speak on, "What Is the Matter, If Anything, With Our Homes?" Then he will take up the subject of Maryville and speak on, "What Is the Matter, If Anything, With Maryville?"

Information and data for these sermons will be secured from questionnaires, which Mr. Snodgrass is mailing out. These are going to men interested in the above subjects and in a position to have an opinion of weight upon the subjects. About two hundred are being sent out on the different topics.

About three years ago Mr. Snodgrass sent out questionnaires upon the subject of the church, asking such questions as, "Do you go to church? If so why and if not why," and some of this material will be available for his present series.

CONGRESS MAY ACT ON BOOZE PROBLEM

LEADERS OF BOTH MAJOR PAR-TIES PREDICT IT.

DRY SHIP RULE A SNAG

Congressional Leaders See Danger of International Complications—
Hughes Will Make a Plan.

Washington, June 15.—Legislative action to revoke the Volstead Law as a subject of diplomatic warfare between the United States and European nations will be taken by the next Congress, it was declared today by spokesmen of both major parties.

Congress stands ready to help the administration avert a "prohibition war" brewing as a result of the dry ship rule, it was said, and it will take any other action necessary to insure international amity over the enforcement of the Volstead Act.

The state department's proposals to give concessions to foreign ships upon the ship liquor ban in return for an extension to twelve miles of the "search and seizure" zone, and it was declared that it would meet with hearty approval with the Senate if it was ever written into a treaty. Party leaders declare they favor independent action to remove the whole prohibition question from international affairs.

Both wet and dry spokesmen agreed that prohibition was solely an American institution. "I think that the Senate would quickly ratify the proposal of the Secretary of State relieving the international situation caused by our dry laws," said Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, Republican "whip."

"I think the Secretary of State will take such action as he thinks best for the interests of the United States and Congress will quickly endorse his recommendations," said Senator Curtis.

Democratic support was forecast by Senator Overman, dry Democrat of North Carolina, ranking minority member on the Senate judiciary committee. "The national prohibition question now needs legislative remedy," he said, "we are getting to be a nation of law-breakers and drinking is being done everywhere. I'm an advocate of prohibition but the international and national situation is serious. There must be some legislative remedy. The agitation in New York, Wisconsin, Illinois, and Georgia even, shows the problem to be truly national. I think the next Congress will solve the problem."

Leaders of both parties declared that they did not believe foreign nations would adopt retaliatory measures against the United States.

People Will Elect Ford Says Couzens

Washington, June 15.—Henry Ford will be elected President if he is nominated by the Democratic Party. Senator James Couzens, Republican of Michigan, declare here this afternoon upon his arrival from Detroit. Aside from commenting upon Ford's presidential chances, Couzens declined to discuss politics.

Half Minute Interviews

Today's question was:
"What do you think of Henry Ford's chances for President?"

Cal Pierce: "Damn slim. Neither party will nominate him and he can't be elected as an independent. In my judgment it is fortunate for the country that it is thus."

Squire W. A. Townsend: "I think his chances are good. If we were to have a primary now he could beat any man in the United States. All of labor is for him. But I'm for McAdoo if anyone happens to ask you."

Charley McCaffrey, lawyer "Damn little. He does not have the necessary qualifications. His ability to make money is no evidence of ability to direct the destiny of this nation in world affairs. He has had no experience or training in statesmanship."

Geo. B. Baker, banker: "I'm a great admirer of Henry but I don't think he has any chances of being President. He has never been a party man and you don't know where he stands."

L. C. Cook, lawyer: "There certainly isn't anyone that thinks he has any chance. He doesn't belong to any party, you can't tell whether he is a Democrat or a Republican."

GAMES TO CHANGE ARE NOT ALLOWED

DR. O. L. CURL TO PROSECUTE
ALL PERSONS PARTICIPATING.

HAS MAILED OUT LETTERS

Nodaway County Prosecutor Is Asking
Co-operation of All Mayors, and Police Officials.

Dr. O. L. Curl, prosecuting attorney of Nodaway County, has mailed out letters to every mayor in the County asking that they co-operate in the enforcement of the anti-gambling laws of Missouri. Dr. Curl says the laws have been violated at nearly every picnic or celebration which has been held in the County within the last several years.

The Nodaway County prosecutor says that he is going to see that the anti-gambling law is rigidly enforced, and intimated that offenders would be compelled to face trial. All constables, policemen and the sheriff are asked to arrest any person found to be participating in a game of chance whether it be for a box of candy or a hundred dollar bill.

The letter, written to the mayors in the county, is as follows:

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure—especially when the sacredness of our laws and the welfare of our communities is at stake. 'Last year, my attention was called to the fact that the law was violated at about every picnic, whether it was Fourth of July or Homecoming, which was held in the County inasmuch as gambling was openly indulged in.

"Under the laws and Supreme Court decisions of our state, any game of chance, whatever, is a violation of the law. All punch boards, paddle wheels and games where there is a chance to get more than the purchase price are against the law. If one buys 5 cents worth and is sure of getting in return 5 cents worth of goods, but in addition may get 10 cents worth or a dollar's worth—in fact, whenever there is an element of chance, the law is violated.

"Now, I am writing this letter to every mayor in the County asking that he see the committee in charge of any picnics to be given there, and instruct them that such concessions must positively be prohibited. I shall ask the sheriff, constables and police all over the County to co-operate in enforcing this law. But action on your part in time will save embarrassment to many of our good citizens and trouble for others."

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

AVOIDING TAXES.

In 1916 there were 206 people who made returns showing they had incomes of $1,000,000 each. This year only 21 people admit such incomes. What has become of the rest? The country has grown richer during those years.

In all probability these folks have put their money into tax exempt bonds, which they had both a legal and a moral right to do under present law.

It is a poor bargain for the public. Such securities have been allowed because a tax exempt bond will bring in a little more money to a government or a municipality than if it were sold on a taxable basis. But the slight gain in price is far more than offset by the immunity gained from taxation by wealthy people. The law should not permit any more bonds to be issued on a basis that enables rich folks to avoid their fair share of the burdens of government.

"A DOG'S LIFE."

It has been customary for a person who has worked very hard or has been unmercifully abused, to say he has lived "a dog's life" or has "worked like a dog."

That saying may have fitted its meaning once, but not now. The average dog of 1923 has an easy time. He gets plenty to eat, has no duties resting on him, except to bark at intruders and keep the neighbors' cats exercised. He sleeps around on rugs, is given regular baths, while human beings work to provide him with his dog biscuit and other dainties.

It may be true that dogs were formerly kicked around as suggested in the "Houn' dawg" song from the Ozark mountains. But that day has passed. Dogs are extremely lovable and faithful creatures, but in the main they live a carefree and sometimes pampered existence. So "a dog's life" is not now an idea suggesting much pity or sympathy.

A good many people figure that the way to make a howling success is to howl about everything other people do.

If the people should elect a woman president of the United States, we might get a house cleaning in government affairs once in a while.

A bootlegger can make two cases out of one with no trouble at all, but it seems hard for the minions of the law to make one case out of half a dozen against a bootlegger.

The Chinese bandits compelled the government to take them into the Chinese army before they would release the foreign captives. The Chinese government should now court martial and shoot the whole army and begin all over.

Governor Al Smith's theory that the Federal Government should enforce the prohibition laws in New York means that New York is going to furnish the cases and that the tax payers of the whole United States will be called on to prosecute them.

A great many people who have saved up a hundred or more dollars and are anxious to make it earn something do not distinguish between an investment and a gamble. They want to get along too fast and forget or do not know that safety and speed do not go together. An investment is something that brings moderate but safe returns and is worth what you pay for it. A gamble is something that promises big returns without any certainty that the promises will ever be fulfilled.

Is there any advantage in taking turf with the iron shots?

Answered by

LAURIE AYTON

Always a consistent place winner in the big tournaments—National Open, Metropolitan Open, Western Open, and sectional tournaments. Famed for his accuracy and steadiness under fire.

Advantage? Why, the only right way to play the irons is to take turf on every shot in which they are used. Doing this gives a player more control over the ball and increases the steadiness of his play. It also helps to get a backspin on the ball when a club of the mashie type is used.

Several Special Numbers in Play—Orchestra and Ten Curtain Ringers Will be Featured.

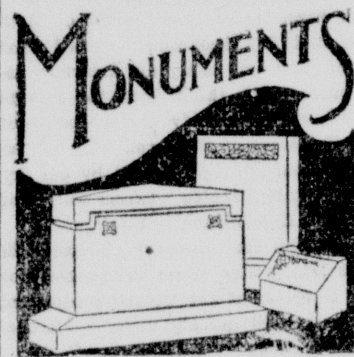

"Every member of the family, from baby to grandpa, will thoroughly enjoy the production of 'The Deacon Entangled,'" said Miss Bess Scott, director of the play, this morning. "It is a show full of good, clean comedy."

"The Deacon Entangled," given under the auspices of the Oxford Club, will be shown at the Empire Theater Monday and Tuesday nights. The following is the story of the play:

Every one supposed Calvin Spangler was going to study for the ministry, so when he drops in upon his astonished Chicago relatives and turns out to be a slangy hero of the diamond, he gets a varied reception.

Cal is a pitcher de luxe and also a clean-up clouter. In other words, when the game is close and a hit means a run, he is rushed into the battle and usually comes through with a hit.

His first "error" is to fall in love with the minister's daughter. Then, in attempting to show his uncle, the Deacon, a good time, they are arrested and the Deacon spends the night in a cell. Scandal is imminent—disaster impends—Auntie goes on the war-

The big day of the crucial game arrives. Nearly everybody's reputation and peace of mind depends upon the outcome. Here it is, in the hair-raising tenth inning, that Cal unleashes his trusty pitching arm and also delivers the timely punch that saves the day for all concerned. He proves in the end that he is a pinch hitter in the affairs of real life as well as upon the diamond.

"The ministry's all right. I'm not knocking it as a profession, but you never see your name in big headlines in that business unless you steal the contribution box or run off with a 'affiry' in the choir."

There are several special numbers in the play, featuring the latest popular songs. Miss Lois E. Wightman and Carlos Yehle will appear in a song and dance number with a double chorus.

Miss Mary Holt will give a special number supported by a beauty chorus. Frank Roelofson is aided by a Spanish chorus and dancer. Miss Ethel Wallace, Carlos Yehle and Byron James will appear in special solo numbers. Miss Genevieve Smith will sing a special "blues" number.

Orchestra music will be furnished by Ralph Yehle, violin and saxophone, Ralph Wilson Eversole, violin, Stanley Ferguson, cornet, Frank Schumacher, drums, and Miss Mary Carpenter, piano.

Resolutions

Maryville, Mo., June 12, 1923
Whereas we, the members of the woman's auxiliary of the Veterans of the Foreign War, having suffered the loss of our comrade, Mrs. M. G. Tate, and whereas she will be sadly missed among our number, we extend to the family and those dear to her our sympathy and solicitude.

Be it remembered among us her happy disposition, her willing helpfulness, and her cheer for others and her endeavors to gladden and help us. Be it resolved that the auxiliary extend its commiseration to her loved ones and commend them to the care of God, whom she loved and trusted.

Be it further resolved that we will cherish in loving remembrance her memory and drape our charter in mourning for thirty days. Resolved in the name of the auxiliary—we place a copy in the hands of the family and record them on our record.

Signed,

are mighty thankful for those who did come out. We had our stakes set for 200 that day but the rain, causing the mud, caused our stakes to pull out and a little less than a third of that number were at Sunday school. We hope to have at least 181 next Sunday. Wouldn't it be great to have that number. Or, to be truthful, we would not be the least bit disappointed to have more than that. Now a good many will say that it can not be done but it can.

The ones who will say that are the ones who generally are not at Sunday school. We are giving those who have not been in attendance, a special and personal invitation to be at Sunday school next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. A hearty welcome awaits you and a fine lesson taught in a splendid way will more than repay you for the time spent in the class. Come one and all.

According to the announcement made by the superintendent last Sunday, C. R. Harman's class will have charge of the opening and closing exercises of the Sunday school next Sunday. They have worked out a fine program for that time and a crowded house ought to greet their efforts. Show your appreciation of these boys and girls by your presence.

It will be of interest to all to know that our Sunday school has averaged 101 since last July 1st. That is a good record and let us make it better than that by next July 1st. Your attendance will mean that you are willing to make a better record for the church school. Your absence, unless unavoidable, means that you don't care a whit whether the church progresses or not. Which shall it be?

Bundle Days.

Suppose this country had been stripped of all the men and women and older boys and girls, leaving only the aged people and small children under 12 years? Suppose all the cattle, hogs, horses, chickens and even all the dogs and cats had been driven off? Suppose all the crops had been destroyed? Suppose all the towns had been wrecked? Suppose all the farming tools had been taken away? Suppose this country was a barren waste because some enemy army had marched across it? Would you feel about it?

Then suppose all Europe and Asia was as productive and happily situated as our own nation is now. Picture yourself as a small boy or girl in this nation, if it was in ruin, standing on the seashore where New York was, looking over the sea toward England and the other nations across the sea. Would you want any of the stuff they had over there? Suppose you were in rags. Maybe the clothes you wore were only a sack with holes in it for the arms and then turning to the north you saw a large snow cloud rising over the horizon, would you want any more clothes?

Would you be willing to wear any kind of clothes you could get? Would you be willing to dress up in a half worn shirt or dress? Then suppose, across the sea, you saw into the closets or store rooms of a great farm home and there were piles of coats, shoes, dresses and many other articles of clothing just being eaten up by the moths, mice and crickets, how would you feel toward those people who were letting the clothes be destroyed? Would you be glad to have some of them? You would.

waiting for a crust of bread or an old dress or shirt you are about to throw away. They are dying by the hundreds, like flies in a trap. They are not able to help themselves because they are not old enough to work. With these children are many, many old persons who have served out their time of usefulness who must, because they would not renounce the Christian faith, spend their last days in rags and die of starvation. Winter is coming on and from what experience you have had with cold weather you can, in a measure, realize how it would be to start the winter with little or no clothing with which to keep out the cold. Are you willing to help these children and aged people survive another winter? If you are, and we pray that you are, will you gather up some of the old clothes you have around your home and bring them to the Christian church or parsonage, Saturday, Sunday or Monday, June 16, 17 and 18? Serviceable clothes will be accepted but fancy ones such as silks, satins, silk stockings, straw or frame hats, evening gowns and such will not be accepted as they can not be used. You have many old clothes that you will not wear but will help keep some boy or girl from freezing this winter. Are you willing to part with them or would you rather the rats, mice or moths would have them so they can pass the winter? Which will you do? Remember Saturday, Sunday or Monday, to bring them in so they can be sent right away. Thank you.

Why not have a Father's Day service on Sunday, June 24? More will be said about it Sunday.

The sermons for Sunday will probably be: Morning, "Are We Ashamed of Christ and Christianity?" Evening "Are You Letting the Grass Grow Under Your Feet?" Everybody cordially invited to both services, at 11 and 8. Come, the latch string hangs on the outside.

How to build up your Weight

To be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality.

It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus.

That's why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S.S.S. will build them.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

That made the king mad.

That's where Esther comes in. She was a Jew girl, pretty, charming, bright, young. She caught the eye of the king. He admired her more than he admired all the others. He made her queen in Vashti's place.

She had a hard place to fill. She was around a king's palace. She was of a foreign race of people suddenly lifted into the king's house. Her kinsman Mordecai told her to fool 'em all, and not let anybody know that she was a Jew. So she proceeded to fool them. About half or two thirds or three fourths of the life of the people around the king's palace was made up of people fooling one another. So Esther was just practicing an accepted code, when she set out to fool 'em.

And she surely did fool 'em.

Mordecai was her cousin. He had reared her. He had been as a father to her. And she loved him.

Mordecai stayed close around. He did not want any harm to befall his pretty cousin. And he happened to be around the gate there when that gump of Haman came in and went out.

Haman was a 2 by 4. He got in on the king and the king lifted him up to a high position. Haman was a little man in a big place. Mordecai was a big man in a little place. I would far rather be a big man in a little place than to be a little man in a big place.

I certainly like the way Mordecai refused to bow down to Haman. Haman wanted everybody to take off their hats to him and prostrate themselves before him. Mordecai was no man worshiper. I always like to run across a fellow who is no man worshiper. It is one of the beauties of America that here in this country no man is supposed to worship any other man. There is always and everywhere something little about a man that will worship another man and fawn before him. There is always something big about the fellow who refuses to worship any man. Men are frail, weak puny—it is superlatively unsafe to tie to any of them.

Surprise Mrs. Dawson

A number of friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dawson Monday evening, in honor of Mrs. Dawson's 53rd birthday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Crane, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hiles, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Short, Mrs. Katherine Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clement, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hagey, Elma Allen, Agnes Allen, Mary Fisher Allen, Truman Allen, Corwin Allen, Doris Dee Hiles, Dessie Short, Myrl Short, Neal and Rex Chambers, Clyde and Dale Short, Harry Neice, Mary Margaret Clement, Ray and Junior Clement, Mrs. C. W. Welt of Omaha, Nebraska, Clara Crane, Lucy Dawson, Margaret Dawson, Bernice Dawson, Pearl Dawson, Leland Dawson and the host and hostess. The evening was spent with music and games and at a late hour refreshments of strawberries and cake were served. —Burlington Junction Post.

Esther Was Both Cunning and Brave in Saving Her People

A great deal has been said about the book of Esther. Martin Luther did not like the book. Other people have criticised it with sharpness because it does not mention the name of God and because there seems to be a studious avoiding of Jehovah, the temple, prayer, religious service.

But if there is no direct reference to God in the book, at the same time God seems to brood His way through the book from the first to last. That's about all we care to say on that part of the subject at hand.

The Sunday School lesson for next Sunday is about Esther, the patriot queen. Many various things have been said about her. The books of Ruth and Esther are classed as two charming rippling, entrancing narratives set down amid the other books of the old Testament. These books both grip and hold the attention of the reader. These women both have made a big impression on the world.

I am a far more ardent admirer of the character of Ruth than I am of the character of Esther. There was nothing about her that was not noble and high and sweet and intense and true. With Esther it seems different. She was a mixture, and a queer mixture.

The king, that old drunken whelp, put on a banquet and was having a time. And when he was pretty well stewed he sent for Vashti to come in to the banquet and let the people see how beautiful the queen was. She was called the queen, but she was not the old king's wife. She refused to come into the drunken gathering.

Why didn't she come?

One commentator says that she was probably putting on a club meeting of her own and did not want to leave the club. That is rather far-fetched. I think it safer to suppose that even though she was not all that she ought to be she still had some finer qualities left in her soul and those finer qualities made her recoil from going in to the old scallawag's feast.

That made the king mad.

That's where Esther comes in. She was a Jew girl, pretty, charming, bright, young. She caught the eye of the king. He admired her more than he admired all the others. He made her queen in Vashti's place.

She had a hard place to fill. She was around a king's palace. She was of a foreign race of people suddenly lifted into the king's house. Her kinsman Mordecai told her to fool 'em all, and not let anybody know that she was a Jew. So she proceeded to fool them. About half or two thirds or three fourths of the life of the people around the king's palace was made up of people fooling one another. So Esther was just practicing an accepted code, when she set out to fool 'em.

And she surely did fool 'em.

Mordecai was her cousin. He had reared her. He had been as a father to her. And she loved him.

Mordecai stayed close around. He did not want any harm to befall his pretty cousin. And he happened to be around the gate there when that gump of Haman came in and went out.

Haman was a 2 by 4. He got in on the king and the king lifted him up to a high position. Haman was a little man in a big place. Mordecai was a big man in a little place. I would far rather be a big man in a little place than to be a little man in a big place.

I certainly like the way Mordecai refused to bow down to Haman. Haman wanted everybody to take off their hats to him and prostrate themselves before him. Mordecai was no man worshiper. I always like to run across a fellow who is no man worshiper. It is one of the beauties of America that here in this country no man is supposed to worship any other man. There is always and everywhere something little about a man that will worship another man and fawn before him. There is always something big about the fellow who refuses to worship any man. Men are frail, weak puny—it is superlatively unsafe to tie to any of them.

Big men lean on God.

This man Mordecai stayed on the outside and worked on Esther who was on the inside. And when Haman got mad at Mordecai for not bowing to him and then decided that he would get all the Jews killed—then Mordecai had to play the statesman. Then he sought out Esther to work on the king to save the Jews. Then came the play of wits. Then came in to the display the finer and sterner and bigger elements in the life of Esther.

She started out with Haman and the king both against her. She wound up by handling them both and saving her people.

And she had a couple of hard bats to handle when she handled the king and Haman. They were high-up men in the kingdom, but at the same time they were lowdown fellows, about as low down as they ever get. It is very often the case that a high up man is really very low down. That sounds paradoxical of course, but it is not any more paradoxical than the case presented by the fellow who sold the uppers and lowers on the Pullman sleeping car, and told the customer that the lowers were higher and the uppers were lower and had some trouble in getting the purchaser to see how the lowers could be higher than the uppers and the uppers could be lower than the lowers. But it was the case all right, and it is often the case in human character too. The lowest men in positions are very often the very highest men in character, and the upper fellows in position are very often the very lowest in character—like Haman and Xerxes the king.

Esther had to face these two scoundrels.

She faced a lot of danger in undertaking the task of saving her people. But with resolute courage she went about the task, and said with a fine finality, "If I perish I perish."

Did you ever think about Esther meeting this issue and this danger?

She had just won out in a beauty contest.

That is a critical time in a girl's life—after she has won out in the beauty contest. You can always tremble for the vanity of the girl who gets her picture in the Sunday daily as the most beautiful girl in two states, or one state. The thing is likely to go to her head. And she has to be a mighty well poised character if she does not get spoiled by winning the contest. And I don't know but that a young girl has been spoiled by being voted the most popular girl in the community at the pie supper or at the Saturday night medicine show where she gets 6,000 votes more than her nearest competitor.

6,000 votes—that's lots of votes. And she is likely to feel that if she is 6,000 in front of the nearest contestant she is surely in a class by herself. It is always a fine thing to see a girl come out of a beauty contest or a popularity contest just as modest and natural and well poised as she was before she went into it, just like it is always refreshing to see a girl come home from a trip to New York or Boston, natural and friendly and genuine.

Winning a beauty contest is often more of a calamity than having freckles, or having to take in washing, or having to wear last year's dress. It is often worse than having straight hair when you want it curly, or red hair when you want it brown, or black hair when you want it, a sickly milk and water blond. It is often worse than mumps, measles, financial calamity. Few people can stand exalted prosperity, and winning a beauty contest is especially full of danger.

Esther won the beauty contest and remained unspoiled by the winning.

She did not feel above her people. She felt on a level with her people. And she risked her own life to save her people. And she was brave rather than silly proud.

That was a high scaffold.

Fifty cubits high. Haman built it to hang Mordecai on. But after the banquet which was attended by Haman and Esther and the king, the tide turned. And the gallows that Haman had built to hang Mordecai on was used to hang Haman on. Ever since that time people have talked about hanging people as high as Haman, but they have seldom done it. Old Andy Jackson talked about hanging John C. Calhoun as high as Haman but of course did not do it. And for centuries hanging men as high as Haman has been considered the administering of the extreme penalty.

I don't know what kind of boys Haman reared. But I am sorry that Esther had them killed too. The demand that she made that all ten of Haman's sons be slaughtered seems to indicate a cruelty of heart on the part of Esther. You never would have looked for anything like that out of the charming, devoted, sweet-spirited Ruth.

UNUSUAL VALUES Thruout Our Store.

No matter how stoutly people maintain that they resent having anything "put over on them," they really only resent it when the "putting over" is so blunt that it can't possibly pass for anything else.

This holds good of so-called "sales." The secret of "sales" is merely this: A merchant marks up his prices enough to permit an apparent slashing during the "sale," these "sale" prices being the prices that should have prevailed right along. So the public gets inflated prices eleven months in the year to get "sale" prices one month.

Our policy is to have absolutely rock-bottom prices every day in the year. Every day is a real "sale" day in our 371 Stores.
